Big welcome for President at Hickam

By Lyle Nelson
Star-Bulletin Writer

President Nixon arrived in Honolulu today and leaves for Midway Island tomorrow for important talks on how to end the Vietnam War.

The gates at Hickam Air Force Base were opened before noon for Islanders, government and military officials greeting the President and his family.

After reviewing a color guard, Nixon was to board a helicopter for the Kahala

Hilton Hotel where he is spending the night. The 10th floor has been set aside for the Presidential party.

Nixon will leave early tomorrow morning on the two-hour flight to Midway.

There he will meet with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu,

TO CHART final strategy for the Midway meeting, Nixon summoned his principal diplomatic and military advisers to a conference later today at the Kahala Hilton Hotel, where he and his family will be staying.

The conferees include Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird; chief peace negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge; Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, presidential assistant for national security affairs; Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the Vietnam commander; Ellsworth Bunker, ambassador to Saigon; Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and Adm. John McCain, commander in chief, Pacific.

Rogers, Laird, Lodge and Wheeler arrived in Honolulu as the vanguard of the team of top officials who will assemble here.

Practically the entire American military-diplomatic team occupied with the Vietnam war has been summoned to Hawaii and will accompany the President to Midway.

Neither Laird nor Rogers would speak to newsmen when they disembarked from their special military jet at Hickam last night.

The officials already on the scene held private sessions today before the afternoon meeting at the Kahala Hilton with the full group.

On Midway Nixon is expected to seek agreement with Thieu on:

1—When some American soldiers can be pulled out of the war.

2—Some formula for a future coalition government for Saigon, or at least the freedom of Communist candidates to run in an open election.

REPORTS HAVE persisted that Thieu and Nixon would come up with an announcement tomorrow of plans for withdrawal of 50,000 American troops from the fighting zones.

White House officials have not denied this outright, although they have said they knew of no firm basis for the reports.

They also have said the troop strength naturally would enter into the Midway ~~discussions~~, as is always the address to the nation that ~~he~~ NIXON AND his advisors two blocks away for lunch: case at such a meeting.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have stepped up their attacks in South Vietnam in the past two days, apparently in an effort to influence the talks.

Indications are that Nixon will hear Thieu's counsel against any coalition government, and for a slowdown on the American timetable for unilateral troop withdrawals.

BUT THE Saigon leader will be confronted by a man who is under intense pressure to extricate the United States from its current dilemma.

Nixon said in his May 14 expect to be held accountably if he does not achieve an honorable peace.

He outlined an eight-point peace plan and promised that there will be no unilateral American withdrawal.

But the word from Saigon is that Thieu expects Nixon to push for de-Americanization of the war.

Furthermore, Secretary of State Rogers, the No. 2 man in the American delegation to the Midway talks, said this week he has no doubt the Vietnamese government is moving in the direction of letting its own forces replace U.S. forces.

are due on Midway at mid-morning tomorrow. Thieu and his group will arrive shortly afterwards.

After welcoming ceremonies in front of the terminal building, the chiefs of state will go to the home of the base commandant, Capt. A. S. Yesensky, for an informal "get-together" on neutral ground" lasting an hour and a half.

This will be in Yesensky's airy living room of rattan furniture. A yellow baby orchid plant blooms in one corner.

The presidents then will move to the officers' club

THEIR MAIN business meeting, to last three hours or more, will follow in an adjacent room where a large oak conference table has been moved in atop a newly laid avocado green carpet.

After the conference, Nixon and Thieu will announce their decisions from the stage of the base theater. By late afternoon, both will be on their way home.

Returning here tomorrow night, the President will hold important conferences at Camp H. M. Smith Monday morning with military leaders before leaving at 10 a.m. for California.

Nixon plans Isle stopover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is expected to leave Wednesday, Feb. 16, on his trip to China and will stop over two days in Hawaii and one day in Guam en route.

White House officials said yesterday Nixon would depart Washington about four days ahead of his Feb. 21 arrival date in China in order to avoid jet travel fatigue.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said advance teams, consisting mostly of communications experts, will arrive in Peking on Feb. 1 and Feb. 14 to make final preparations for Nixon's trip.

ZIEGLER SAID one group of 65 American technicians will leave for Peking tomorrow, accompanying cargo transport planes that will airlift a $1.6 million, 50-ton ground station to China for beaming live telecasts, telephone calls and telephotos back to the United States.

The ground station will hook into a new satellite, Intelsat 4, now in orbit over the Pacific. Western Union International is leasing the ground station from Hughes Aircraft Company and in turn will lease it to the Chinese Government.

The technicians arriving Feb. 1, including representatives of Hughes Aircraft, Western Union and the three major broadcast networks, will install and maintain the ground station in a trailer at the Peking Airport.

Ziegler also disclosed that another 18-member delegation, including communications personnel, will arrive

See Nixon on A-6, Col. 2.

NO WORD ON NIXON PLANS

It appears that President Nixon and his party, which will include some 80 persons, will probably be staying at the Kahala Hilton Hotel, but last night no one here knew for sure.

He definitely is not staying at the Mauna Kea Beach Hotel on the Big Island where presidential adviser Henry Kissinger stayed last October while en route to make arrangements for Nixon's visit to mainland China.

A spokesman for the Mauna Kea Beach Hotel said yesterday that he is "holding no reservations for the President." He also said his hotel is booked solid for February.

The Kahala Hilton, where the President stayed on two previous visits (June 7-9, 1969 and April 18-20, 1970), has not yet received word of a presidential visit. A spokesman for CinCPac, which coordinates the President's ground security, and a representative of the Governor's office were awaiting details last night.

in China on Feb. 14 to make the last minute preparations for Nixon's arrival.

ASSISTANT press secretary Timothy G. Elbourne will represent Ziegler's office on the first advance into China. He will be joined by Jack D'Arcy, his assistant, on Feb. 14.

Ziegler said the schedule for the President and Mrs. Nixon's week-long visit, which includes stops in Peking, Hangchow and Shanghai, is nearing completion following consultations with Chinese officials.

He said the list of press representatives who will accompany the President is not complete. About 80 newsmen, including 45 representatives of the three networks, will be in the party.

Ziegler said he did not expect a formal agenda for the talks between Nixon and Chinese leaders to be set before their initial meeting. The President is expected to have lengthy conversations with Premier Chou En-lai and at least one meeting with Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist Party.

President Nixon, en route to a historic meeting with China's leaders, tentatively is scheduled to land at the Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Kaneohe Marines will ground many of their jets and eliminate the usual 5:30 a.m. reveille to assure the President and Mrs. Nixon a quiet two days and nights during their stopover here.

THE NIXONS WILL depart at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, according to the tentative schedule. He is not scheduled to make any public appearances during his stay and the Marine base will be closed to all except military personnel and civilians with special passes.

Yesterday marines were repainting several old buildings, trimming hedges, mowing lawns, collecting litter and generally putting the base in order for the Nixon visit.

A Marine Corps spokesman said the number of jets taking off at night from the base will be reduced while the Nixons are here.

EVEN THE 5:30 a.m. recording of a bugle playing reveille will be eliminated during the Nixon stay, as will "chow time" announcements over the base public address system.

The Nixons will stay at Brig. Gen. Victor A. Armstrong's two-level, four-bedroom yellow cedar block house at 611 Nimitz Drive, on a bluff overlooking the Pacific.

Armstrong, who knew Nixon as Vice President and who now commands the First Marine Brigade, has moved out of the home to the house of a recently retired officer across the street and has turned his quarters over to the President and his wife for their two-day stay.

The 31-year-old house, which has 4,030 square feet of living space, is furnished in traditional style in cool shades of green and yellow. It has a number of windows offering an expansive view of the ocean.

TWIN PINE trees stand at the front entrance to the Armstrong home. A steep incline leads to the beach and churning surf below.

The water directly below the Armstrong home is too rough for swimming, but a pleasant white sand beach is available nearby. Any boats entering the area will be intercepted and turned back.

If the President has time to delve into Hawaiian history, he will learn that Ulupau Head, the extinct volcano which can be seen from the Armstrong home, is one of the oldest craters in the island.

THE MARINE base stands on Mokapu peninsula, which Kamehameha the Great once selected for a royal meeting place. "Mokapu" means sacred—or forbidden—land. From the other direction the President will look out on the steep cliffs of the Ko'olau Range, likely at times to be partially capped by clouds which bring rain to the verdant Windward side of Oahu.

The isolated Mokapu peninsula provides excellent security and privacy, probably the reasons it was chosen for Nixon's stopover.

Nixon's acquaintance with General Armstrong also is believed to have been a factor in his choosing the Marine base as a temporary White House. Nixon knew Armstrong when the commandant was senior helicopter pilot for President Eisenhower, during Nixon's vice presidency. Armstrong also served in the same capacity during the early days of President Kennedy's Administration.

SECRETARY OF State William Rogers and presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, who masterminded the China trip, also will stay at the Marine base.

Other members of the presidential party will stay at the Kahala Hilton, some 20 miles from Kaneohe. Press representatives for the trip will be headquartered at the Hilton.

Kaneohe Home Awaits Nixon, Wife

President Nixon and his wife Pat will spend tonight and tomorrow night in the new Hawaii White House.

The Nixons will occupy the residence of Brig. Gen. Victor A. Armstrong at Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station for the two days they will be in Hawaii en route to China.

Armstrong has moved to another house across the street from the Hawaii White House. The latter is located at 511 Nimitz Drive.

The Nixon's left Andrews Air Force base in Maryland at 12:30 p.m., Washington time — 5:30 a.m. Hawaii time.

Their flying time to Hawaii: approximately 10 hours, with the arrival scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

THE PRESIDENT will stay in Hawaii until 1:30 p.m. Saturday, his next stop on the China trip is Guam.

No public appearances are scheduled in Hawaii, and the President is expected to continue his intensive study on China in preparation for his historic meetings with Chinese leaders.

The Presidential physician has advised rest on the stopovers here and on Guam during the long trip.

Top presidential aides traveling with the Nixons include Secretary of State William P. Rogers and national security adviser Henry Kissinger. The latter was the advance man for the President's China trip.

Rogers and Kissinger will stay at Kaneohe until the Saturday departure.

Other White House staff members will stay at the Kahala Hilton Hotel.

General Armstrong, commander of the First Marine Brigade, has turned over to the Nixons a two-level, four-bedroom home, high on a steep bluff. There is a spectacular ocean view from the home.

IT IS THE SAME residence that was occupied by President-elect Eisenhower on a post-election trip to Korea in 1952 and a subsequent Far Eastern tour as President in 1956.

An inviting white sand beach is nearby, and the waters that wash that part of Mokopu Peninsula have been closed off by the Coast Guard for security.

Some of Nixon's critics in Hawaii plan to emphasize objections to his policies tomorrow afternoon in a demonstration at the main gate of the air station.

Chances are that the President will not see them, however, since he is unlikely to leave the base during his two-day stopover.

The Hawaii critics say they will demonstrate to protest the "increased bombing in Indochina and the deteriorating domestic economy."

The Nixons' China visit will include two brief stays in Shanghai, six days in Peking and a night in Hangchow.

Much of the Nixon China tour will be carried worldwide on live color television.

The President's 707 jet has a range of 7,000 miles, an 11-man crew and room for 58 passengers. It will take aboard an English-speaking Chinese navigator at Shanghai for the flight to Peking.

Protesters, Clouds Are Against Nixon

At the gate to the Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station anti-war protesters planned a demonstration today, hoping to attract President Nixon's attention.

Deep inside the base, the President wanted to improve his tan.

But it looked as if neither the protesters nor Nixon would have much success.

Nixon planned to spend most of his time at the four-bedroom home on the base where he will rest in preparation for his departure tomorrow afternoon for Guam and China.

AT HIS ARRIVAL yesterday, Nixon told Gov. John A. Burns he hoped to match the Hawaii Democrat's tan with the help of some Hawaiian sun.

But the weatherman predicts cloudy and filled skies through tomorrow.

If Nixon decides to leave the base, he probably will travel by helicopter. He thus would miss the demonstrators who planned their activities for 2 p.m. at the single gate to the base.

Students for a Democratic Policy, Catholic Action, Liberated Barracks and the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars are the groups sponsoring the demonstration.

THE PRESIDENT'S jet, "Spirit of '76," touched down at the base yesterday afternoon and came to a fast stop at the end of the 7,707 foot runway amid a cloud of exhaust fumes.

The normal length for runways handling big jets at commercial airports is 12,000 feet.

Fanfare for the President's welcome was kept at a minimum. About 5,000 persons were packed into an area at the edge of the runway.

way suspended off by ropes strung between oil barrels.

Many of them didn't even glimpse the President and the first lady during the 10 minutes when they each received a red carnation lei and strands of brilliant orange ilima before departing for their quarters.

Nixon and his wife moved toward the crowd and began touching hands, but moments later, Gov. and Mrs. John A. Burns, who were late and missed being in the receiving line, arrived.

THE NIXONS left the crowd, talked briefly with the Burnses, and then left the scene in a limousine.

The Governor had been tied up in the same traffic that the other spectators endured from the single gate into the base to the air field. At the height of congestion, the route — about three miles — took about 45 minutes to cover.

The Nixons were whisked away to an ecru-and-white two-story, cinder block rambler in a cluster of about 20 houses for officers and their families on a promontory overlooking the Pacific on the ocean side of Mokapu Peninsula.

The site offers an imposing view of the sea and the Windward coast — but not much of the flavor of Polynesia.

FOR YEARS the military has watered, pruned and fertilized, but grass tends to be sparse. coconut palms are spindly, and two tall Norfolk Island Pine trees fronting the Hawaiian White House grow at giddy angles because of the constant wind.

It doesn't promise to be an inviting spot for the conditions the weatherman is predicting through tomorrow.

It will be cloudy, rainy, with temperatures in the low 70s—and winds out of the north at about 25 miles per hour.

THAT MEANS the presidential accommodations will be buffeted by winds directly off the ocean — and that the white sand beach stretching below one side of the house won't look particularly attractive.

Secretary of State William

P. Rogers and Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger are staying at neighboring houses in the compound.

Other members of the President's staff are staying in Honolulu at the Ilikai Hotel, as well as the 87 newsmen who flew in with Nixon yesterday on his plane and two auxiliary Pan American 707's.

More Hoover Memos

on Kissinger

By BOB WOODWARD
and CARL BERNSTEIN

WASHINGTON (WP) — "Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, national-security adviser to the President, called from Key Biscayne, Fla. . . ."

So begins a memorandum for the files made by the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover on May 9, 1969. The time is noted in the upper left hand corner: 10:35 a.m.

liam Beecher in The New York Times that day about secret B-52 bombing raids on Cambodia.

In Kissinger's view, the story is "extraordinarily damaging and uses secret information," according to Hoover's account. The memo continues:

"Dr. Kissinger said they wondered whether I could make a major effort to find out where that came from. I said I would. Dr. Kissinger said the article was in the lower right-hand corner of the front page and to put whatever resources I need to find who did this. Dr. Kissinger said to do it discreetly of course."

According to a second Hoover memo of the same day (this one with the time 5:05 noted in the upper left-hand corner), the FBI director called Kissinger back with information about Beecher and Morton Halperin, a member of Kissinger's National Security Council staff.

Hoover speculated that Halperin might have leaked the story to Beecher. Referring to the two, Hoover said "both are so-called arrogant, memo continues:

"Dr. Kissinger (a former Harvard professor himself) said he appreciated this (information) very much and he hoped I would follow it up as far as we could take it and they will destroy whoever did this if we can find him no matter where he is."

Neither memo by Hoover mentions wiretapping. But another memo dated May 11, 1969, from William Sullivan, Harvard-type men." The then the No. 3 man in the FBI, tells of a visit from Alexander M. Haig, then Kissinger's chief assistant:

"Haig came to my office Saturday (May 10) to advise me the request was being made on the highest authority and involved a matter of most grave and serious consequence to our national security . . . Col. Haig said it is believed these surveillances will only be necessary for a few days to resolve the issue."

Haig, now President Nixon's on's chief of staff, was wrong. The wiretapping began the next day, May 12, 1969, and lasted in some cases until Feb. 10, 1971. The tap on Halperin lasted the full 21 months. In all, 13 high-ranking government officials and four newsmen had their telephones tapped. At least one White House official was put under physical surveillance.

Now, more than three years after the last tap was shut down, Kissinger has threatened to resign as Secretary of State if his name is not cleared of allegations that he failed to testify fully and truthfully at his confirmation hearings about his role in the wiretap operation.

In that testimony and elsewhere, Kissinger has maintained that his role in the wiretapping program was limited to supplying the FBI with the names of subordinates who had access to classified information leaked to the news media.

Kissinger's current problem arises from the House Judiciary Committee's investigation of the possible impeachment of the President. The committee has obtained FBI documents which tend to directly contradict Kissinger's description of his role picturing him instead as the initiator of some of the wiretapping.

Wanted Tap on Times Man
Specifically, the documents include wiretap characterization memos by Hoover to then-Attorney General John N. Mitchell, in which the FBI director described the circumstances of individual wiretaps to be undertaken and the attorney general gave his written approval to their implementation.

In two of those memos, drafted May 13, 1969, Hoover wrote that Haig "advised that Dr. Henry A. Kissinger of the White House staff had requested that as soon as possible a telephone surveillance be instituted on the home of "two members of Kissinger's staff—William A. K. (Tony) Lake and Winston Lord.

A third top-secret memo from Hoover to Mitchell, dated June 4, 1969, states that "on this date Dr. Kissinger has requested that telephone surveillance be placed on" a reporter—identified by independent sources as Hedrick Smith of the New York Times.

(The FBI documents supplied to the committee have the name of the reporter deliterated and simply use the letter designation "D" to identify him. The order for that tap was signed by Mitchell and the surveillance of the reporter was ended on Aug. 31, according to the documents.)

The FBI material in possession of the House committee states that Kissinger received 37 letters from the Bureau outlining the information overheard on individual wiretaps; that Kissinger received such summaries of the taps as late as Dec. 28, 1970, six months later than he testified he last received a summary; and that Kissinger personally visited the FBI on May 20, 1969, to read the wiretap logs.

One source said the "memos are twice removed from directly involving Kissinger." The source cautioned that Hoover tended to write self-serving memos for the files. "Hoover said that Haig said that Kissinger requested them . . . well, that's not any kind of proof."

The sources noted that Haig — then Kissinger's deputy — could have invoked Kissinger's name and been acting on a general delegation of authority from Kissinger, who may have been unaware of the specific wiretap requests.

However, eight well-placed sources, including officials presently and formerly in the FBI, Justice Department and White House, separately said that Kissinger probably was less than candid in describing his role in the wiretapping to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings on his confirmation. Those same sources disagree on the significance of Kissinger's testimony.

One source said Kissinger was "simply putting his best foot forward," while another felt that Kissinger possibly failed to testify fully and accurately before a Congressional committee.

Data Show Kissinger Had Aide Tapped, Then Urged Him to

By NICHOLAS M. HORROCK
Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, July 12—

Three months after Henry A. Kissinger ordered the Federal Bureau of Investigation to wiretap Morton Halperin as a potential security risk, he was recorded on the tap, pleading with Mr. Halperin to remain in government, bureau documents disclosed today.

The documents, filed in Federal District Court here, were part of a series of F.B.I. internal memoranda and letters from J. Edgar Hoover, the late director of the Bureau, to Mr. Kissinger, who was then President Nixon's assistant for national security affairs and is now Secretary of State.

They were surrendered by the Government in a lawsuit pressed by Mr. Halperin, then a member of the National Security Council Staff, who was wiretapped by the F.B.I. on Mr. Kissinger's orders both while serving in the Government and after he resigned and returned to private life. The tap was placed on Mr. Halperin's telephone at his home in suburban Maryland.

In this most recent filing, made this week, are a series of letters that Mr. Hoover used to report to Mr. Kissinger on the product of the wiretap on Mr. Halperin's telephone. By and large the references to specific conversations are brief and in many cases inconsequential.

Wife's Conversations

For instance, the F.B.I. reported to Mr. Kissinger that Mr. Halperin's wife had told a cemetery lot salesman and several women callers that her husband was working on President Nixon's Vietnam speech. It reported on a conversation in which Dr. Daniel Ellsberg, who later made public the Pentagon papers, discussed "trips," which the F.B.I. concluded were drug trips.

The bureau's technique, in these cases, was to record the conversation and then reduce the material to summary form that became part of a "log" of the traffic over the phone. Most of the summaries were brief. But apparently the bureau felt a call from Mr. Kissinger to Mr. Halperin placed at 3:43 P.M. on Aug. 9, 1969, was worthy of fuller attention. It prepared a four-page summary of that call, but there is no indication that it sent the summary to Mr. Kissinger.

Mr. Halperin said in an interview that he believed the call covered in the Aug. 9 summary had been made by Mr. Kissinger shortly after Mr. Halperin told him he planned to resign from the N.S.C. and join the staff of the Brookings Institution, a well-known Washington research center.

"Kissinger praises Halperin's work as being extraordinary for him [Kissinger]," the summary said. "Kissinger would like to make a major effort to find something satisfactory and if not Halperin could always go to Brookings."

At another point the summary notes, "It was strongly stated by Kissinger that Halperin had a damned frustrating position there and some of my operators have behaved very poorly." Kissinger wants Halperin to know that his work was "certainly the most creative of anyone on the staff," and he doesn't want to give up on that without a struggle."

It quotes Mr. Kissinger as saying he will talk to the Attorney General, John N. Mitchell, and the President about trying to work out something to "satisfy" Mr. Halperin.

The summary ends with another call Mr. Halperin made to a friend and colleague on the security council in which he discussed the offer made by Mr. Kissinger.

The original tap, F.B.I. records have confirmed, was placed on Mr. Halperin's telephone on May 9, 1969, and remained there until February.

1971. This was nine months after he left Government service.

The F.B.I. recorded conversations he had after leaving the Government, including some while he was advising Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who was seeking the Democratic Presidential nomination. Mr. Halperin was never formally charged with compromising national security as a result of the 21 months of telephone taps and physical surveillance.

In these most recent court filings the Government surrendered photographs taken by a hidden F.B.I. camera of Mr. Halperin and Henry O. Brandon, Washington correspondent of The Sunday Times of London, as they left the Occidental Restaurant on Aug. 9. It was after this luncheon that Mr. Halperin received the call from Mr. Kissinger at his home.

Captioned matter concerns the law suit filed by Morton H. Halperin, wherein he alleges that he was illegally wiretapped from 1969-1971. As a result of this suit the Bureau has been required to furnish to the court and plaintiff numerous documents [redacted]

Unexcised copies have been impounded by the court under a protective order which does not allow public disclosure. Also copies of the impounded documents have been excised so they relate only to the plaintiff and have been furnished to the plaintiff. A court order signed 6/19/74 prevents plaintiffs from making public any of the documents furnished to them in this law suit.

At present the originals of many of these documents are required to be, and are maintained, in the Special File Room or given equal security within the Intelligence Division. Copies of these documents being furnished in the law suit are included in captioned file, as are memoranda that disclose the content of these sensitive documents. Captioned file is presently maintained in the regular files. In view of the sensitive material being placed in this file, and the fact that this material is not being made public, it should be afforded greater security and, therefore, maintained in the Special File Room.

Reference is made to memorandum, Legal Counsel to Mr. J. B. Adams dated June 24, 1975.

Attached are two copies each of pertinent documents relative to the FBI instructions on preparation of Electronic Surveillance (Elsur) index cards. These items are requested in referenced memorandum to be delivered to Legal Counsel by close of business July 2, 1975.

EX-106

A review of files containing instructions relative to the establishment of Elsur indices and the communication of these instructions to the field has been conducted and the attached documents obtained. It is believed that these documents answer the court order and are sufficiently inclusive to meet the requirements of FBI Legal Counsel in answering this court order.

7 30-16662-57

It should be noted that the teletype to all field offices dated October 5, 1966, included instructions which might have been interpreted as stating that Elsur cards should be submitted on consensual monitorings, inasmuch as it says in the second paragraph that "these include monitoring by all types of electronic devices such as those carried on a person or in a car."

The field apparently never complied with these instructions; however, since the Supreme Court on a number of occasions has distinguished between consensual and nonconsensual monitorings. This distinction was eventually written into law in the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, which states that "It shall not be unlawful under this chapter for a person acting under color of law to intercept a wire or oral communication, where such person is a party to the communication or one of the parties to the communication has given prior consent to such interception."

Legal Counsel memorandum to Mr. Adams, da requested that External Affairs Division review material relating to a motion by Morton H. Halperin for production of documents including:

"...any documents reflecting the identities of persons contacted or proposed to be contacted by Mr. DeLoach or other FBI officials on or about 5-9-69 in the investigation of a leak to the 'New York Times' (this item includes, but is not limited to the names, evidently, of newsmen or persons with press contacts) listed in Mr. Hoover's memorandum of 11:35 a.m., May 9, 1969."

Legal Counsel further requested that External Affairs Division furnish by close of business 8-12-75, our views on possible grounds for resistance to this discovery.

OBSERVATIONS:

(1) The memorandum referred to mentions newsmen whom we apparently contacted, and it would be a blatant invasion of their privacy to expose their identities to other persons.

(2) To identify them would be a breach of confidentiality with regard to their relationship with the FBI who might otherwise cooperate in official FBI investigations

Kissinger Says He Had Secretaries Secretly Listen

to Phone Calls and Make Summaries

By NICHOLAS M. HURROCK

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Henry A. Kissinger assigned his secretaries to listen surreptitiously to telephone calls to and from his White House office and make summaries of the conversations when he was President Nixon's adviser for national security affairs, according to a deposition filed in Federal court here.

A 46-page deposition filed by Mr. Kissinger, who is now Secretary of State, in answer to questions from Morton Halperin listed 11 conversations, including direct quotes, that Mr. Kissinger had found in his files based on summaries prepared by his secretaries.

Former White House officials and aides confirmed that Mr. Kissinger did not warn callers that a secretary was on the telephone line. One former member of the National Security Council staff said that Mr. Kissinger had also had his secretary eavesdrop on and record his conversations with President Nixon. He said that he did not believe Mr. Nixon had been told that a secretary was listening in.

Suit on Wiretaps

The disclosure came among series of answers to questions posed in a lawsuit by Mr. Halperin involving 17 electronic wiretaps placed on White House desks, Government employees and newsmen between 1969 and '71.

Mr. Halperin served on Mr.

Kissinger's staff from early 1969 until September 1970. The Federal Bureau of Investigation placed a wiretap on his home telephone on the orders of the White House on May 9, 1969, and continued the tap until February 1971, more than five months after Mr. Halperin had left the Government.

In this latest deposition, filed in United States District Court here, Mr. Kissinger said for the first time that he believed Mr. Nixon had directed that electronic surveillance be placed on Mr. Halperin specifically as well as authorizing a general program.

"At the Oval Office meeting on April 1969, President Nixon authorized an electronic surveillance to be conducted, the deposition said. "While his authorization was general in terms and not limited to specific individuals, my understanding was that he then directed surveillance of Morton Halperin and certain others."

Present at Meeting

The meeting testimony has brought out, took place in the Oval Office on April 25, 1969. It was attended by Mr. Kissinger, the President, J. Edgar Hoover, then director of the F.B.I., and John N. Mitchell, the Attorney General.

Mr. Mitchell has given a deposition in the same case in which he said he could not recall that Mr. Nixon had ordered specific wiretaps against individuals. He said that he believed that Mr. Kissinger had been responsible for preparing a list of names of persons to be tapped.

This crucial point, whether in fact the wiretap program was pressed by Mr. Kissinger or by Mr. Nixon and the F.B.I., may be settled later this week. Mr. Halperin and his lawyers are scheduled to take a deposition from President Nixon at San Clemente, Calif., on Thursday.

It was in trying to reconstruct his discussions of leaks of information that Mr. Kissinger disclosed his practice of having secretaries eavesdrop on certain of his conversations.

"Business telephone calls from my White House office were usually monitored by my personal secretaries, who then prepared brief summaries of those conversations," his statement said. "The summaries are not complete, and may not, in some cases, accurately reflect the substance of the conversations covered."

He quotes conversations from Feb. 3, 1969, to May 7, 1969, in which he and unnamed parties (the names were withheld since the talks were used as examples) discussed leaks.

The 11 conversations he mentioned are presumably only a small part of the summaries of conversations in his files. Several sources said that Mr. Kissinger had continued this practice throughout his White House service and that there were "literally hundreds" of summaries.

The 11 conversations are apparently with various Administration and White House officials. Several of them appear to be in the context of warning officials of Mr. Nixon's concern with news leaks. In one conversation, an unnamed official gave Mr. Kissinger a tip on who might have leaked the story. It read:

"P then brought up R story — said it not come from there. P said he had very confidential information that it came from college roommate in K's shop who has long talks with R. K said he would not stand for that. P said he would try to check it out a little more. K said his staff has orders not to talk to press on anything."

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- RICHARD NIXON SAID THAT WITHIN TWO DAYS OF BECOMING PRESIDENT IN 1968 HE READ A SECRET MEMO SAYING THE FBI FOR YEARS HAD BEEN WORKING WITH A BRITISH CORRESPONDENT SUSPECTED OF WORKING FOR BRITISH INTELLIGENCE. THE MEMORANDUM DEALT WITH A BRITISH CORRESPONDENT WHO MADE AN OPPosition MADE AT HIS PACIFIC RESIDENCE JAN. 12 AND TALKED WITH AGENT CALLED MR. HOOVER AND SAID, 'WHAT IS THIS ALL ABOUT?' NIXON REPLIED, 'THIS INDIVIDUAL IS NAMED AS ONE WHO WAS INVOLVED IN SPYING. I AND HE INDICATED THEY USED ELECTRONIC SURVEILLANCE FOR YEARS.'

NIXON SAID HE DON'T KNOW WHETHER IT WENT CLEAR BACK TO THE KENNEDY ADMINISTRATION OR THE EISENHOWER ADMINISTRATION, BUT HE SAID HE WAS UNWILLING TO GO ANY FURTHER BECAUSE OUR INFORMATION COULD POSSIBLY BE RECEIVED BY AN INTELLIGENCE AGENT FOR THE BRITISH AND ALSO HE MIGHT HAVE EVERY REASON TO BELIEVE THAT INFORMATION HE RECEIVED COULD BE USED BY AN INTELLIGENCE AGENT. HE STATED HE HAD A BROAD RANGE OF CONTACTS WITHIN THE GOVERNMENT THROUGH A NUMBER OF CHANNELS AND WITHOUT ANY INTENT TO HARM THE GOVERNMENT HE COULD NOT BE GUARANTEED IT WOULD NOT BE MISUSED AND THEREFORE BE HARMFUL WITHOUT HIS ENTENDING TO DO SO. NIXON DID NOT IDENTIFY THE BRITISH CORRESPONDENT HE TALKED WITH. HE SAID HE CALLED IN HENRY KISSINGER, THE THEN NATIONAL SECURITY ADVISOR.

THE INDIVIDUAL, NIXON SAID, HE KNEW HE HAD TO GET RID OF THIS KIND OF MEMORANDUM. "INTELLIGENCE DIVISION RECEIVED"

"THAT'S YOUR JOB. I MEAN IT'S NOT MY JOB." NIXON STATED. IF HE HAD BEEN ADVISED OF A PROBLEM, THEN HE WOULD HAVE TAKEN ACTION. HIS DEPOSITION WAS GIVEN IN THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON INSPECTOR GENERAL INVESTIGATING AGAINST THE FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION. HE WOULD NOT BE HELD LIABLE FOR WIRE TAPE AGAINST HIM AND OTHERS SINCE HE WAS AMONG THE FOUR APPROVED TO USE WIRE TAPE. HE STATED HE COULD NOT TELL THE OTHER THREE MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE WHAT THEY TALKED ABOUT.
